RUSS CLANS MAKE PLEA FOR RESCUE FROM JAPAN

Issued To The Powers In The Name Of Seven Governments

WORLD QUERIED

Intervention Damned With Faint Praise In Pronunciamento

JAPAN UNMASKED

Russian Leaders See Chance To Wrest Land From Foe

"We do not want war. We want to live and labor peacefully. We shall build our lives ourselves, as we see fit. We aim to reunite with the Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic and with you, workers of all countries! The fate of the Russian revolution shall reflect upon the fate of the world's democracy! We expect an active, forceful response to our fraternal call to the workers of the world!"

The Shanghai branch of the Delta News Agency of Peking which represents the various Russian governments, including the Soviet Republic, issues the following statement. It is an appeal to the proletariat of the world against Japanese aggression in Siberia and is signed by the seven principal governments and political units of Siberia:

An appeal by the Conference of All Socialist Parties: "The toiling masses of Russia have had hard trials to go through in the world war. The Russian people have sacrificed more than any of the other belligerent peoples. The incapable, mercenary Tsar Government, rotten to the very core, has brought the country to terrible ruin, even before the Revolution. Then there came the evils of two years of military intervention. Your governments have sent to our country military forces under the pretext of 'maintaining order' in Russia. The white armies of the counter-revolutionary generals have been lavishly supplied with arms and money by your rulers, with the object of robbing the Russian people of all the fruits of their revolution and bringing them back to the same state of affairs that was prevailing under the Tsar's regime. COMPLETE RUIN

The civil war made possible by the fact of intervention, has brought our country to complete ruin. It has enveloped the great territory of Russia in fire, has almost completely destroyed our means of transportation, thereby paralyzing our industries and creating a situation very menacing not only to us, but to all of you as well since you are unable to obtain much that she has to offer and which is of great necessity to you. The Allied military intervention is nearing its end. Almost all the countries intervening have withdrawn their troops from Russia, declaring that they will no longer support the reactionary troops there. Though the declarations of your governments came rather late, since they were made after all the reactionary forces throughout Russia had suffered complete defeat—still, it is better late than never. We have hopes now that our country will be able at last to begin peaceful, constructive work. ARE APPRECIATIVE

"We are highly appreciative of the great service that you have rendered us in this struggle. If the Russian counter-revolution and intervention failed, it was not only because of the perseverance and heroism of our revolutionary people, who have risen to the defense of their country, purged in the fire of revolution—but it was also thanks to the support which you have lent us."

"Your powerful voice of protest, together with the military failures and defeats of the white armies, have compelled your governments to give up the idea of crushing the Russian revolution. (Continued on Page 7)

HOUSING BOARD IS TO PROMOTE GUILD SOCIALISM

Will Revolutionize Industrial Control, In Opinion Of Experts

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 5.—The attempt to cope with the serious housing problem has resulted in a very interesting experiment being made in London and Manchester in the application of "guild socialism," which, it is believed, will completely revolutionize industrial control.

Under the system a trade-union ticket is a certificate of membership of the "guild," which is designed to mobilize the necessary labor and eventually to undertake all branches of the building industry, supplying skilled architects and engineers and carrying on all the necessary and desirable public and private work.

TO INCREASE POWERS

The labor of the "guildsmen" will no longer be a marketable commodity but he will be "on the strength" for life. It is anticipated that the Guild will be able to increase the purchasing powers of its members' pay by scientific organization of production.

Discussions have been proceeding with the Ministry of Health with reference to the percentage of cost allowable for management. This has now been settled on a basis of 6 percent in addition to remuneration of £40 per house, payable by the local authority.

Well Known Pagoda In Soochow Decorated By Electric Lamps

A Captivate Sight

By T. P. Hsu, (Soochow)

In Soochow, there is a wide-famed ancient pagoda, built during the Han Dynasty, known as the Eight Character Pagoda. Through a hard struggle with time and weather, the pagoda stands quietly, up to the present, with its own glory and grandeur in the northern part of this city.

The pagoda is of a noble height, having nine stories. On its summit, one may, from a giddy height, get a whole view of the city and of the surrounding country. Strangers, therefore, who visit Soochow must go to see the place. During the past two years or so, the pagoda was closed and admittance was prohibited. In the spring of this year it was flung open and admittance was allowed. Commencing on Saturday last, being the sixtieth anniversary of Taiping, the pagoda was decorated, through the funds donated by its citizens, with about three hundred electric lamps. This is called by the citizens as reviving the pagoda.

Congress Through; President Scores Loyalty Of Body

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 6.—Congress has adjourned sine die. Washington, June 5.—President Wilson, replying to the request of the Railroad Brotherhood to prevent the adjournment of Congress, sharply criticizes the failure of Congress to deal with the cost of living, deplors its inaction in other vital matters, and declares that Congress is not only preventing the conclusion of peace with Europe but has failed to present a constructive plan for dealing with the deplorable conditions there.

BABY GIRL DIES WHEN STRUCK BY HOE; BOY IS HELD

Father Of Victim Declares Youth Made Threats Against Child

(Reuter's Service)

Suspicion of foul play was aroused yesterday when an investigation was begun in connection with the death of a six-year-old girl whose skull was fractured by a blow from a hoe in the hands of an 18-year-old boy who was working in her father's field on the outskirts of Shanghai. The youth declared the child was the victim of an accident. The girl's father asserted that the boy had made threats against his daughter and that he suspected murder.

American Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Kwan in the Mixed Court decided to allow the police another week in which to continue their investigations before disposing of the case and a refund for that length of time was ordered. In the meantime the youth is to be detained without bail.

The case was first reported as an accident but the circumstances were suspicious and an inquest was called for. At the hearing it developed, according to the testimony of the child's father, that the lad had inquired of him last Sunday "what would happen if he killed her." There had been a quarrel between the youngsters, the father said.

Turkey Has 2 Weeks To Consider Terms

(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, June 6.—The Allied High Commissioners have informed the Sublime Porte that the Peace Conference has granted Turkey a fortnight extension of time within which to examine the peace terms.

Paris, June 6.—The Matin states that the Spa conference will probably be adjourned until July 5 or 8, and that M. Millerand and Mr. Lloyd George will meet at a French coast town before the end of June.

The Petit Parisien understands that M. Millerand has definitely instructed M. de Haulgouet, the French economic representative in London, not to associate himself with any decision which might be interpreted as an indirect recognition of the Moscow Government, or in any way compromise the security of French creditors represented by the gold seized by the Bolsheviks from the Russian State Bank. The Journal adds that the agreement between the British and French on this subject appears to be complete.

$6,500 RAISED HERE TO BUY RICE FOR CHEAP EXCHANGES

Members of the local Chinese gentry have raised the sum of $6,500 with which to purchase rice for the two cheap exchanges now in operation at the Dragon King Temple and the Boatmen's Guild. The price of the cereal remains firm at $11 per picul.

The request of the rice exchanges to take delivery of the 454 piculs of rice confiscated by the Civil Governor of Kiangsu was rejected yesterday. The cereal is now kept at the godown of the Shanghai-Hangchow Railway and the sum of $260 is now due for godown fees. The railway administration claimed the full rate and the exchange authorities refused to pay. The matter now goes before the City Magistrate Mr. Shen Pao-chang.

The two exchanges did good business again yesterday. Over 50 more piculs were sold to the poor at 1,000 coppers per picul. Armed police patrolled the depots during the business hours.

JAPAN BUSINESS SHOT TO PIECES

Dishonored Bills Increase In Number, According To Osaka Report

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, June 7.—There is no improvement in the general business outlook and, if anything, it is worse. Bankers' clearings show a marked decrease and on the other hand dishonored bills are rapidly increasing. New enterprises and extensions have diminished considerably. During May the excess of imports over exports was 100,000,000 Yen and the aggregate excess since January amounted to 440,000,000 Yen.

Stocks, yarn and rice are all depressed. Rice, which maintained comparative strength is now demoralized. Early in May, rice futures were quoted at about 40 Yen per koku and they are now 33 Yen.

ALL GOODS DOWN

Yarns early in May were about 400 Yen per bale but they now stand at 250 Yen. Stocks of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha are keeping at about the 150 Yen level, which two months ago was 250 Yen. Yokohama raw silk which early in May stood at about 200 Yen, is now about 130 Yen.

Various price indexes show that commodities fell about 10 percent during May. Unemployment both of laborers and salaried men is increasing while the retail prices of daily necessities are still high. This is regarded as a most dangerous social factor.

Strikes are now almost unheard of because this is not the time for wage advances. The South Manchuria Railway is reducing its staff to the extent of ten thousand employees.

Osaka, June 8.—Investigations made by the Osaka prefectural office show that during the past three months 357 factories were closed and 8,500 workers were discharged, of whom 6,500 secured new employment. The above only covers Osaka. Figures for the whole of Japan are not yet available.

Says Mesopotamia Is Very Rich In Oil

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 5.—Sir John Cadogan, Director of the Petroleum Executive lecturing last night on "The Oil Resources of the British Empire," dealt specifically with Mesopotamia, "which," he said, "offered great possibilities for the prospector."

Regarding the impression in America that it was Great Britain's intention to corner the world's oil supply Sir John Cadogan pointed out that it was not Great Britain's policy to exclude foreign participation in British oil enterprise. Regulations to this effect were merely legitimate war-time measures.

The British Empire was not the greatest producer of oil but was absorbing more than her own supply and consequently it was increasingly difficult to supply other countries. It therefore behooved Great Britain to find another source to supply her demands.

REJECTS PROPOSALS

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 6.—The Sunday Express learns that the Government has decided to reject the proposals for the surrender of the Mesopotamian oilfields, thus facilitating the independence of the Empire as regards its petroleum supply.

VESSEL ON ROCKS NOW IMPERILED BY STORM

Typhoon Sweeping Up China Coast Is New Menace

TUGS STANDING BY

Little Fear Felt For Safety Of Crew Of Pak Ling

With a typhoon sweeping up the China Coast, after having arisen near the Carolines and striking Formosa, the Blue Funnel freighter Pak Ling was believed to be in a precarious position last night aground on the low rock known as Button Island in Bonham Pass.

Two tugs, hastily despatched from Shanghai were standing by and crews of divers and coolies were at work in an attempt to float the vessel but at last reports she was still fast on the rock, leaking badly in the forepeak.

The Pak Ling went ashore on the rocky island Sunday night. Reports are so meager that it has been impossible to learn the cause of the wreck.

TUGS TO RESCUE

On Monday the tugs St. Dominic and Victoria were despatched to her assistance at the instruction of the agents, Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, and took with them wrecking crews to float the vessel. Radio messages last evening indicated that the efforts had not yet been successful but that it was hoped the ship could be re-floated before the arrival of the typhoon, should its course include the scene of the accident.

The Pak Ling, which is of 4,621 tons burden, sailed from Liverpool on April 24 bound for Shanghai via Hongkong with a general cargo. She is reported to have upwards of 100 persons on board. It is assumed, however, that with the tugs standing by these people are in little danger.

MAY STRIKE ISLAND

As to the possibility of the typhoon taking a track that would include Button Island, which is some 60 miles south of Shanghai, a quotation from the new Atlas issued by Director, Louis Proc. S. J., of Sicaev Observatory, regarding June weather conditions is timely.

The Director shows on a chart 34 tracks of typhoons and points out that although tropical storms have not much increased in numbers the translation of their movement towards the Northwest is asserting itself more and more.

"The most interesting feature for us is that the China Coast is no more invulnerable; the typhoons may strike Kwangtung and even in two instances give warning that they can rise up to Foochow, and pay a visit, after recurring inland, to the mouth of the Yangtze River."

It is expected that suspense felt last night as to the fate of the Pak Ling will be ended early today as radio messages are expected at that time reporting progress on the work of saving the steamer.

Sinn Fein Wins Big Irish Victory

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 6.—The Irish local government elections have resulted in a sweeping victory for Sinn Fein, except in north-east Ulster and County Londonderry.

The great majority of Irish county and district councils are now exclusively Sinn Fein. The position in Ulster is substantially as before, except that the Unionist majority of one in Tyrone has been converted into a minority of two.

FIRE ON PATROL

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 6.—Concealed Sinn Feiners fired on a military patrol in County Kerry yesterday. The troops returned the fire and succeeded in capturing three of the attacking party.

A hundred armed men today surprised a patrol of twelve policemen and soldiers between Carrigrohilly and Middleton, County Cork, and captured the patrol's rifles, ammunition and bicycles.

Dry Campaigner Who Returns From Europe

"PUSSYFOOT" JOHNSON

William Eugene Johnson dubbed "Pussyfoot" by the British wets, snapped upon his arrival in New York aboard the American liner New York. England will be as dry as the Sahara within ten years, declared the prohibition crusader, upon his arrival. And France, to use his exact words, "is up in the air." The drought, however, asserted Mr. Johnson, will come within the next few years. He joked about the "ragging" incident in London which cost him an eye. Mr. Johnson will go to his home in Westerville, Ohio, for a visit. After that he will make addresses in many cities and return to England in September.

U. S. PASSPORT FEES INCREASED

Rise Of From $2 To $10 Is Announced; Charges For Visas Also Lifted

Charges imposed for the issuance of American passports and the fees for approving officially passports held by nationals other than Americans have been increased just 400 percent—or from $2 to $10—by the American Department of State, according to an announcement issued yesterday by Mr. Edwin S. Cunningham, American Consul-General.

While the change in the scale of fees for American passports does not become effective until July 1, for all practical purposes the higher rates are now in effect because it is announced that applications for department passports which cannot reach Washington prior to June 25 will come within the scope of the new scale.

No mail to leave Shanghai can reach Washington before that date. In the past two years fees have been charged for the issuance of either regular or emergency passports, a fee of $1 for the application and an additional fee of $1 for the passport. It is the fee for the passport which has been increased, from $1 to $9, as the fee for applications will remain at $1.

Concerning charges for the handling of the passports of other nationals, the announcement says: "On and after July 1 all aliens, other than officials, will be charged a fee of U. S. $1 for execution of visa, and U. S. $9 for the visa of passport for travel to or through the United States." All fees quoted are gold.

Chicago, June 5.—Chicago is filled to overflowing for the Republican Convention, which opens on June 8 with Senator Lodge as temporary Chairman. The Convention will meet in the Coliseum, the scene of the historic split in 1912.

Washington, June 4.—The United States will be represented unofficially at the conference between M. Krassin and the representatives of the Supreme Economic Council in London.

HSU INVITES LI, TSAO AND CHANG UP TO PEKING

Non-Anfu Men Asked To Confer With Chief Northern Executive

MORE CITIES FALL

Chang Ching-yao Fails To Keep Re-Captured Positions In Hunan

HONAN WANTS WU

Defiant Tuchun Wants To Station Chihli Men In His Province

Impatient with the numerous requests for a declaration of war against Hunan, Old Hsu has issued a call to the three non-Anfu Tuchuns, Li Shun of Kiangsu, Tiao Kun of Chihli and Chang Tso-lin of Fengtien, to come up to Peking. Hsu expects to strengthen his position against the Anfuites in the North, who still want Tuan Chi-jui to go down to Hunan to crush the Southern forces.

Although the three military Governors have not yet had time to reply, it is likely that all will accept the invitation. Chang Tso-lin, for the last few months, has been most anxious for an excuse to enter the capital. Though a military man, he despises the Anfu militarists. He wants to test his strength against the Anfuites, if necessary.

Tiao Kun will willingly pay a visit to Peking. He will welcome the opportunity of explaining what his great lieutenant, General Wu Peifu, is doing for Hsu. He would like to know whether really the president approves the conduct of his protégé. Then Hsu and Tiao can map out the most advantageous position which Wu should take in order to be able to check the Anfu army effectively.

Li Shun's support to Old Hsu has been most beneficial. As dean of the Yangtze Tuchuns, he did much in persuading the Northern militarists to sign the armistice in 1917. During the entire internal conflict, his attitude has been one of neutrality, never siding with the Anfuites even when they were at their best.

PARLEY ESSENTIAL

To Old Hsu, a conference with these pillars of state is highly profitable if not essential. It will be easy for these four to reach a clear understanding whereby the notorious Anfu Gang may be broken up. Perhaps, never was there a time more opportune than now to have this done. Compared with the other leaders now in power, Old Hsu is more acceptable. But he has no material force behind him. His calling in of the three military men will lend him strength, strength to defy the obnoxious Anfuites.

In the capital today only the vigilance of the Diplomatic Corps is preventing the Border Defense Army from moving Southward. The mobilization of one of the divisions under Chen Wen-yuen has drawn an unofficial protest from one of the legations.

The Joint Bureau of the General Staff and the Ministry of War is anxious to help Chang Ching-yao. But the lack of funds and ammunition makes it hesitant. Meanwhile the wire between Changsha and Peking is kept hot with messages from Chang. Telegram reports suffered by the Northern troops and loss of cities.

FIVE MORE CITIES LOST

Several more cities have been lost, according to his despatches. The new list includes Yushien, Chaling, Yiyang, Fungchien and Yutang. With the fresh supply of munitions from the Hankyang Arsenal, Chang's troops are bombarding some of the lost towns, but without success.

Hengshan was the only post recaptured by Chang after heavy bombardment but he lost it after taking possession of it for one day. An attempt was also made to re-capture the lost position at Anjung but he was repulsed with severe casualties.

The withdrawal of Chihli troops from the Hunan front continues. General Wu Peifu left Hankow Monday after the departure from there of 32 trainloads of troops under his command. All the freight cars along the Kinan Railway were commandeered for that purpose. According to his present plan, his forces will be distributed in the following manner:

The Fifth Mixed Brigade, quartered in trains No. 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, to be stationed in Chengchow, Honan.

Three regiments of cavalry, quartered in train No. 6, to be conveyed to the Huangho Bridge.

HONAN HAS BIG FORCE

The Eighth Brigade, quartered in trains No. 7 and 8, to be sent to Szechow, Honan.

The First Brigade, quartered in trains No. 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14, to be stationed in the vicinity of Hsuehchow and Yenchow, Honan.

The Main Division staff officers and engineers and transport corps, quartered in the Train No. 15, will establish their headquarters in Chengchow, Honan.

The Second Mixed Brigade, quartered in trains No. 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 to be left in Churnatien, Honan.

The Third Mixed Brigade, quartered in the trains No. 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25, will find their destination in Tschow and Shenteh, Chihli.

The Sixth Mixed Brigade and three regiments of artillery, quartered in trains No. 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31 and 32, will also proceed to Chengchow, Honan, where the headquarters of the division will be established.

General Chao Ti, the defiant Honan Tschun, has asked the Central Government, to allow General Wu Peifu's troops to be distributed in the manner described. Most of the forces, it will be noticed, are in his province.

The Central Government, of course, has no alternative but to consent.

NO ALARM AT HANKOW

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, June 7.—General Wu Peifu's soldiers are at present in large numbers at Hankow. It is rumored that General Wu has decided to take 11,000,000 from the Military Governor of Wuchang and to use as he has received 1,000,000 from the Chinese Chamber of Commerce at Hankow.

The Wuchang-Changsha Railway is most probably closed, the railway staff having been intimidated by the soldiers. It is very difficult to get any definite news but no great alarm is felt here.

He will travel extensively in the interest of the department. Dr. Tenney will then return to America with his family. Upon the expiration of 60 days' leave after arriving home, however, he will tender his resignation.

Birkenhead Gate Wrecked By Coaster

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 5.—The coaster Countess collided with the gate of the Alfred Dock at Birkenhead today and immediately a catastrophe poured over the gate, sweeping away and overturning small craft.

A dozen tugs dashed to the rescue. Those who were floating were picked up and others swam to the sides of the dock and clinging there, thus saving themselves from a fall of twelve feet.

The current, which was running at 60 miles per hour, flung wreckage up on the banks half a mile away. It was at first feared that there were about 15 to 20 dead but it has now been learned that only a few are missing.

The vessel cost $4,000,000; her tonnage is 32,500 tons and she carries twelve fourteen-inch guns. Special features of the construction of the Tennessee are the "fighting-brain" near the top-mast, in which all the devices for observing enemy ships are concentrated, and also the electrical control of speed, which enables a quick change from top speed of 21 knots to an almost imperceptible motion.

THE LIGHT THAT FAILED

With rice rising steadily in price and other phases of the H. C. L. staring her in the face, Madame Dzung Wong-ze felt it incumbent upon her to curtail expenses.

This, it should be explained, is the theory of the police as expounded before the Mixed Court yesterday when the Madame was called on a charge of larceny and had her case remanded for a week.

Mr. W. F. Dearn, installation

Inspector for the Municipal Electricity Department, made the complaint.

It appears that that Madame Dzung felt that light should be shed on her home at 1836 Avenue Road.

And when her bills seemed unnaturally light, Inspector Dearn thought light should be shed on the situation.

He says the result of his light on her light was that the light bills were due to a slight lightning of the action of the meter in her home.

The lady's purse is $300 ball money lighter now and will remain so until the court is enlightened.

Makes Intriguants Re-

BY NATHANIEL PEPPER
(Our Peking Correspondent)

Peking, June 5.—The sympathy of every foreign resident of China of any nationality—will surely be with China in the stand it has taken with respect to the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

At least, no student of Far Eastern affairs will minimise the historic importance of its declaration.

To be sure, China's statement will hardly have immediate effect. There does not seem to be much likelihood that any decisive action will be taken immediately, either by Great Britain or Japan, dealing with the future of the Alliance.

By the terms of the treaty either party can give notice on the 13th of next month that, at the expiration of a year, the Alliance can be abrogated. Or, similarly, negotiations for renewal can be opened at that time.

But all the intimations that have come—at least, from London—indicate that neither party wishes to take any positive stand now. It is more likely that a policy of drift will be followed until some opportunity forces the issue to a decision.

Then, it is equally likely that the treaty will be allowed quietly to die and its demise will be gently announced, with discreet diplomatic camouflage. For, to those who live in the Far East, at least, the Alliance seems to have outlived its usefulness to either party. It requires a discerning vision to see any reason for its continued existence.

CHINA ON RECORD
But China has declared itself, nevertheless. If and when the alliance should come up for renewal or revision, it can have appreciation itself to only two situations: Siberia and China.

Of these two the more important is China. And China has given notice that, inasmuch as any treaty contracted, applying to it, affects its status and its future, it has a right to a voice in that determination. That is the gist of its communique to the British Foreign Office.

In other words, China asserts its entity as a nation and its claim to maturity.

For fifty years or more the Powers have been making compacts about China. They have been apportioning respective spheres, earmarking this or that, even guaranteeing the country's integrity.

And all this while China has sat and looked on as a much-interested spectator at the disposition of its lot in the society of nations.

THE 'ETHIOPIAN'

Now pass over charitably, if you will, the fact that every guarantee of integrity and so forth has been followed by some action directly calculated to undermine China's independence and reduce its state to that of a vassal.

"Heaven protect me from my friends," can be China's only sentiment on a perusal of treaties made by other Powers concerning it.

Pass over that if you will; but the fact remains that the most interested party to any of these treaties is China itself. And, as the most interested party, China is merely asking to be heard.

If the great Powers really have any belief in the pious assertions of China's sovereignty, they cannot contest that claim.

A VASSAL STATE

Any state whose position can be determined by other states without being consulted is not a sovereign state. It is a possession—an international possession, if you will. And we have not yet come to that. Certainly China has not conceded it.

For China, too, it is more than a matter of amour propre. It has precedents to consider. Great Britain and Japan now make a treaty guaranteeing China's integrity.

Good. But what if Germany and Russia, twenty years from now, or Russia and Japan, make another treaty apportioning China between themselves as a protectorate?

If China yields acquiescence to the one, what position has it in the other?

Its only safety is a blanket assertion that it is not bound by any treaties concerning itself which have not at least been initiated in advance.

THE OPEN DOOR

Take the matter of the so-called Open Door, for instance. Suppose Great Britain and Japan again pledge themselves to the maintenance of the "open door" in China. Has not China a right to inquire just what that means and how it affects itself? Does it mean the "open door," as it is now, is open in South Manchuria? Or in Shantung?

Or take the matter of Japan's "special position" in China—the recognition of which Japan wants far more than it wants promises of the assistance of the British fleet.

Has not China a right to be heard, before special positions on its soil are awarded anybody?

Conceivably, international affairs may again take a turn where Japan has bargaining power that puts every other country at its mercy. It is not outside the possibilities that it may be in a position to wrest any concession from those Powers, especially concessions not costing them anything. It might even get from them a complete free hand in China, the right to establish a protectorate.

Shall China complacently allow itself to be made the sport of diplomatic gambles? China has just declared that it will not.

A SHREWD MOVE

Whether attended by success or failure, as a diplomatic move, China's note is shrewd.

If Japan and Great Britain acknowledge its right to be consulted it will have achieved for itself a new position—a position of far-reaching importance.

It will have won for itself a parity with other Powers. It will be as a sovereign state, dealing in fall equally with other states.

If Japan and Great Britain refuse China's right to be heard, they will write themselves down publicly as insincere in all their professions of disinterestedness in China, and they will have given China cause for an appeal against them, and a weapon of defense.

That is a commitment few people out here believe Great Britain is willing or shortsighted enough to make.

In any case China will have gained.

West China's First Motor Car Excites

(China Press Correspondence)
Chongtu, June 4.—The introduction of the first motor vehicle into West China by a missionary has produced a sensation in Szechuen. The Rev. James M. Yard of the Methodist Mission in Chongtu, who recently returned from furlough, brought with him a motorcycle, the gift of friends in America. It is the first motor vehicle to go west of Hankow, and Mr. Yard has spent most of his time demonstrating it to schools and civic bodies in the province capital. One day all the newspaper men of Chongtu gathered to see it, and the missionary says that it has given him more publicity than all the usual work which he has done in that city. With the publicity goes a liberal amount of thrill, as might be expected in navigating the first motor vehicle through the narrow streets of a Chinese city. In fact, the only comfortable place for riding so far discovered by Mr. Yard has been on top of the city wall.

CHICAGO TEAM IS NOT COMING

Cable Dashes Hopes Of Series Here Between Shanghai And Chicago University

"Dr. Downs, Shanghai: Sailing America Saturday further games impossible regrets thanks—Merrifield."

The above cablegram addressed to Dr. N. L. Downs, President of the Shanghai Baseball Club yesterday dashed all hope that a baseball series would be arranged for Shanghai with the team of Chicago University which has been touring Japan for the past several weeks.

It was known here that the Chicago players were under instructions to sail for America in time to arrive there in July, but it had been announced that no possibility existed of obtaining transportation and this gave rise to the belief that the collegians would be able to come on to China for a series in Shanghai and probably for a second series in Tientsin. Conditions that were imposed by Mr. Merrifield, Manager of the Chicago University team, for the proposed trip to China were accepted in a cablegram dispatched a couple of weeks ago by Doctor Downs. It is believed here that transportation accommodations to America were obtained for the university men at the eleventh hour and they found themselves obliged to follow the instructions they were under.

GOOD GAMES COMING
It may be announced, however, that Shanghai fans can be assured of another baseball series in coming weeks.

The Baseball Committee has revised the Red and Blue Sox teams. A meeting was held at the club house yesterday and it was decided that Doctor Clapp should manage the Red Sox while Doctor Downs will take hold of the Blue Sox. The following players were selected for the Red Sox: Holman, Bristow, Claire, Porterfield, Merrill, Wilhoit, Ladd, Smith, Stovall, French, Pomeroy and Blanco.

Doctor Downs' aggregation will consist of Held, Hoffman, Gill, Hopkins, Tinkham, Woods, Bills, Crow, Lilley, Sperry, Busch and Roberts.

The players mentioned have been urged by the respective managers to turn out for practice regularly. Games will be played beginning Thursday afternoon and will continue on Saturdays, Tuesdays and Thursdays for several weeks. This is a splendid chance for new material to appear and prove whether or not they deserve a place on the regular team. Sundays will be reserved for games arranged for the regulars.

MUST PRACTICE
There is a new Richmond in the field, namely the International baseball Club. This new team will engage the Shanghai tilters next Sunday afternoon and according to "Doc" Downs they promise to do a few things to his pets. No doubt the fans would be mightily interested if there was danger of such a possibility.

Both teams are figuring on playing their best in order to show which team should have the right to be regarded as the "Home" team.

Field Day At Shanghai College

Shanghai College held its annual Field and Track Meet Saturday afternoon. The weather was ideal and the contestants in spite of limited practice managed to break several of the home records.

SWISS FEARED RED RISING IN MAY

Elaborate Orders To Army Show Government's Nervousness

TROOPS WERE TO SHOOT

Socialists Ask Cabinet Meaning Of Orders—Deny Trouble Was Intended

Berne, May 1.—Nothing could better show the Swiss Government's nervousness about the alleged Bolshevik rising this week and than the following order signed by the Minister of War:

"If troops encounter armed resistance anywhere, the town or locality in question shall be considered in a state of insurrection. Every commanding officer shall forthwith take upon himself to disperse every assembly of the public however small.

"He shall arrest everyone suspected of instigation or provocation and order the closing of all printing offices and meeting places serving these purposes. He shall occupy all telephone offices and forbid the use of the telephone for private purposes. He shall establish observation posts on church towers and other viewpoints.

"Any insurgents, throwing stones shall be forthwith fired upon by the infantry and attacked by cavalry charges. Infantry and cavalry shall make unrestricted use of machine-guns and cannon against insurgents who may shoot. Insurrectionary agitators and leaders playing their pranks in the background shall be shot down from upper stories of adjacent houses. In street fighting it is important to occupy upper stories and often the roofs also.

Instructions follow concerning the treatment of a town in insurrection before the troops arrive and concerning the use of scouts in battle. "Machine-guns and hand grenades must be used against revolutionaries firing from houses, windows or cellars, but hand grenades only if skilled and really capable grenadiers are available. Hand grenades, however, must never be thrown into windows unless it be absolutely certain that some one has fired from them.

"Artillery must be employed against strongly occupied, substantially built houses, for machine-guns are insufficient. Grenades should be used against barricades. For firing against upper stories mountain artillery can be advantageously used. For defense from houses and keeping the fronts of houses clear, hand grenades are preferable, it is recommended, so that the enemy shall not know from which window the firing proceeds or grenades are thrown. Surprise attacks with machine-guns can take place even through closed windows.

"The best way for permanently suppressing resistance in disturbed streets is by patrolling them with motor cars with machine-guns. To clear away barricades break in doors and quickly cut off streets or bridges. All troops departing for street fighting must be provided with tools and wire. In case of having to go out at night on foot cavalry must be armed with bayonets.

Socialist members of Swiss Parliament are interpellating the Government about this order of the War Minister but hitherto the Government has not replied. Apparently the order is mainly meant for Berne, a big village of a hundred thousand inhabitants, remarkably phlegmatic in character. So far as the foreign resident can see there is no warrant for such militarism. Socialist leader questioned about it said, "Nothing was known in Socialist circles of any rising."

As a result hubby and three accomplices, a man and two women, one of them her sister-in-law, were called into court. British Rail Men Reject Compromise

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 8.—Mr. J. H. Thomas, General Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, announced at a meeting of railwaymen at Battersea today that the London Council of the railwaymen had decided to reject the Wages Board award.

Mr. Thomas warned the meeting that the only alternative was a national strike, which would be disastrous. The matter will be decided at a conference on July 6.

Referring to the situation in Ireland, Mr. Thomas declared that no one could accuse him of want of sympathy towards Ireland; and yet he would never condone the present systematic murders.

"Not even a labor government," he added, "would tolerate the present state of affairs. Ireland is on the eve of great disaster unless an understanding is achieved."

of depriving the toiling masses of their rights won through the revolution, of stopping the process of the great social reconstruction of our country, and of defeating the approaching "red vision" of Socialism.

ROUND THE CORNER

"There is, however, a corner in Russia, where the end of our sufferings is not near in sight and the population thereof threatens to assume a form not yet experienced, even in the history of our terrible trials.

"Japan, having begun her intervention in Russia together with the other nations, is not only not following the example of her Allies by withdrawing her troops from the territory of the Far East, but is showing no intention of doing so. On the contrary, she is continuing to increase her forces here by landing military transports daily.

On January 31, 1920, the reactionary rule was overthrown in the Far East and a democratic provisional government was formed, until the reunion with the rest of Russia could take place. The new government met with the solid support not only of all the Socialist parties and elements, but also of the bourgeois groups, who have finally reconciled themselves to the idea that there is no other road to the regeneration for this borderland but by joining with Central Soviet Russia.

JAPAN UNMASKED

"The Japanese diplomatic representatives and military authorities here have been pretending that they wish to keep up friendly relations with the new Government.

"However, on the night of April 4, few hours after peaceful assurances were hypocritically made by the official representatives of Japan, the Japanese suddenly attacked our non-suspecting military forces throughout the province, from Vladivostok to Harbin.

MADE ARRESTS

"Without any declaration of war, without any warning, they began to shoot up and batter down the army barracks, murderously bayonetting the soldiers who were sleeping there.

"Having disarmed some of the troops and compelling the rest to withdraw to the hills, they began to make arrests among the peaceful population. Many of the unfortunate ones who fell into the clutches of the Japanese Imperialists have had to go through many of the tortures of the Middle Ages.

"Peaceful citizens are being exposed to beatings and insults by Japanese soldiery. The trade-unions and workers' organizations have been crushed. The conditions the Far East is going through at present cannot be compared with those of the most terrible war.

"In a state of war, laws, however severe, still exist, but the population of the Far East is not protected by any laws and is left entirely at the mercy of the Japanese military clique.

"Those who seem undesirable to the Japanese are declared by them to be Bolsheviks or Korean revolutionaries—which is synonymous to being outlawed.

TRY TO EXPLAIN

"The Japanese are trying to explain their atrocities away by maintaining that the Russians were the ones who attacked them first. But this is a lie. Not only every Russian here is convinced of its being so, but every other foreigner as well. They are putting in circulation this falsehood with an attempt to justify before the civilized world their treacherous and barbarous methods.

"Life in the Far East is dying away completely. The railroads have not been functioning for many weeks, because the railway-men are being terrorized, abused and brutalized by the Japanese soldiers. The workers have quit the factories and gone to the hills. They go there to be away from the horrors that are reigning in the places occupied by the Japanese troops, and prefer death in an unequal fight to the affronts and insults that are awaiting them here.

A WORLD APPEAL

"We appeal to you, workers of the world! You have assisted us before in our struggles with the international intervention and reaction. You must help us to end our revolutionary fight victoriously.

"Japan has sent her troops to Siberia together with the other interventionists. The governments of all those countries that have participated in the intervention bear responsibility for the horrors that we are enduring here at the hands of Japan.

"Demand of your governments to energetically interfere and compel Japan to withdraw her troops, thus sparing the population of the Far East the terrors of the Middle Ages.

"Workers of all countries! Now, when the Japanese militarists have practically seized a part of the Far East, while your governments keep silent, thus helping Japan to crush the Russian, Korean and Chinese peoples, we appeal to you.

"The Great Russian revolution, whose importance is world-wide, and the millions of victims sacrificed for the conquest of the realm of labor and peace call upon you for help!

TEARING UP RUSSIA

"The ravenous hands of the interventionists are tearing apart revolutionary Russia, and so the Russian workers and peasants demand of you strong and courageous interference.

"We do not want war. We want to live and labor peacefully. We shall build our lives ourselves, as we see fit.

"We aim to reunite with the Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic and with you, workers of all countries!

"The fate of the Russian revolution shall reflect upon the fate of the world's democracy!"

"We expect an active, forceful response to our fraternal call to the workers of the world!"

CABINET WORKERS DECLARE STRIKE

Increased Wages Demanded
On Ground Of Higher
Cost Of Living

Cabinet makers who have been manufacturing foreign style furniture for three of the leading business houses in Shanghai have called a strike and are demanding higher pay. The strike has not yet become general, according to information received last night, but a number of the skilled workmen have quit the shops.

An increase of 15 cents a day in their wage is demanded by the strikers. This, it is estimated, amounts to a demand for a rise of nearly 20 percent in the pay-roll.

High cost of rice and other commodities is the reason assigned by the strikers for their action. Some of the workmen employed by Hall & Holtz, Arts & Crafts and Tai Chong have been affected by the movement.

ANFU MEMBERS OPPOSE MR. WEN

20 Call At Presidency; Are Received By Secretary;
Situation Muddled

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 8.—Twenty Anfu members of Parliament visited the Presidency yesterday and requested an audience with the President. They were received by Wu Chi-an, the chief secretary.

The object of their visit was to urge the President not to recognize the appointment of Wen Tsung-yao as chief southern delegate and to continue negotiations with Tang Shao-yi.

The Canton administration has advised the Government that at a conference, held on June 6, it was decided to dismiss Tang Shao-yi, substituting Wen Tsung-yao. The communication added that the Southern administration had always declined to recognize Wang I-tang and that, therefore, any arrangement between him and Tang Shao-yi could not be recognized.

The government also received a telegram yesterday from Dr. C. T. Wang, approving the proposal to resume negotiations in Shanghai.

In these circumstances the situation, while offering better peace prospects on the whole, is considered in official circles as extremely involved and likely to lead to curious developments.

GOV. M'CALL SAYS HOOVER'S THE MAN

Why Not Confront Practical
Difficulties With Practical
Men? He Asks

GENIUS LIKE GENERAL

His Work In The War Displayed
The Very Qualities The Nation Stands In Need Of

Cambridge, Mass., April 24.—Former Gov. Samuel W. McCall, on invitation of the Harvard Magazine, has told why he considers Herbert Hoover the only Presidential candidate worthy of consideration.

"In the consideration of a man for the Presidency of the United States the prime test is one relating his fitness for the place," he wrote. "In normal or humdrum times the demands of the office are sufficiently great to require a vigilant scrutiny of the merits of one who aspires to hold it. But in the most critical period in the history of the world since the Republic was established the call for merit is supreme. It is the obvious duty of all parties and of men not affiliated with parties to seek for the best man. Not to do that would be as lacking in patriotism as to pass by our greatest General in time of war and to trust the defense of our country to one who was less competent."

"A striking instance of this submergence of partisanship in the regard for the common weal has just been seen in one of the States of the Union. In Michigan a few days ago we witnessed the spectacle of the same man leading in the primaries of one party and polling a great vote in those of another. In the one party he had scarcely permitted the use of his name; in the other he had forbidden its use altogether. The man who evoked this extraordinary tribute is Herbert C. Hoover."

A SELF-MADE MAN

"I gladly accept your invitation to write something about him and especially about the quality in him which is making such a stirring appeal to the people of the country. Hoover was born in Iowa, and it may be said in passing that we have not yet chosen a President from that vast stretch of territory between the Pacific and the Mississippi. When very young he lost his parents and was soon thrown on his own resources. As many American boys have done, he worked his way through college. Instead of coming East he turned to the new university at Palo Alto. After graduation he began mining with pick and shovel, but his extraordinary talent was soon revealed and he was transferred to the office and, through his merit, was quickly advanced from one position to another. And by the time he was forty he was recognized as the foremost mining engineer in the world. He conducted great enterprises in Australia, China, Africa and Russia, and showed an executive talent in responsible management not at all second to his talent as a technical engineer. It was at a time when American mining engineers came forward and outstripped the engineers of other countries. They were summoned to the most inaccessible places and they delved in the earth for its hidden treasures in almost every land. It was a chapter in history of which Americans are justly proud.

"And at this point the orators attack Hoover. Cicero said in one of his speeches: 'A new crime, O Caesar, has been brought before you; Quintus Legarius has been in Africa.' In the prosecution of his work Hoover has been in London. The enormity of the offense is nearly on a par with its novelty, especially in the patriotic eyes of the Super-American."

With the outbreak of the war Hoover was called to the work for which he was superbly fitted. One who has read the story of the war from day to day knows his achievements by heart. No name is written more brightly on the pages of that history. The record of his relief work in Belgium reads like a romance. And with our country's entrance into the war work was expanded to a stupendous scale. Our allies were approaching the point where famine would have put an end to their power to fight. From our own moderate supply of food our people at home had to be fed, the nations of Europe supplied, and the millions of men in the armies in France satisfied. The work required the nicest adjustment in the individual needs—the wise fixing of prices so as not to reduce production of food and yet not encourage profiteering, and the distribution of the requisite amounts among widely separated places just when and where they were needed. Prices were kept down. Millions of tons of food were moved with the precision of the movements of army corps and with the strategy of great military leaders; the world was fed and the war was won.

"We admire the greatness of the General who direct vast armies and win decisive battles. But we must recognize the genius of the man who saves the lives of millions of men and who just as decisively as the General helps us to achieve victory. Unlike the tactics of the General, the work of Hoover in the war displayed the very qualities of civil administration the Nation stands in need of, and of an excellence such as we have probably never seen in any executive office in the country."

VISION AND ABILITY

"We have had need of the practical anatomist during the development of our institutions, and the demand for him has by no means gone by. But the uppermost conditions of our time call for a man of administrative power, gifted with the vision to see things and the ability to do them. It is well to have applied in the complicated thing the Government has come to be the genius and exactions of the engineer. Take, for instance, the price of coal, which has been steadily rising until at last it has reached a point where the article may be classed among the luxuries. We witness without resentment the increase in the wages of the miners by 40 cents a ton, and then see the price put up to the consumer by two or three times the amount of the increase in the wages. Why such a disproportionate increase in prices? There has been a vast deal of political eloquence lavished upon the increase in living cost, but political eloquence nowadays often sheds darkness rather than light upon practical economic questions. Suppose we should at least apply to this question the qualities of the exact seeing man who knows all about the practical elements in the problems, who could soon know precisely the cost of mining and transportation, the cost and need of rehandling and storage, who could see which expense might be lessened and where profits were exorbitant. Such a man as head of the state could speak with an authority that could not be resisted.

SAVED US A BILLION IN SUGAR

"Hoover saved the country a billion dollars during the war by the manner in which he dealt with sugar, and if the advice which he gave on leaving office had been heeded he would have saved the people nearly another billion during the present year. Beautiful essays and speeches are admirable in their place, but they are apt to come high in government. Why not finally try the experiment of confronting practical difficulties with practical men? We have tried oratory without end upon the high cost of living, and with each swelling period we have seen it beautifully mounting upward. Why not, as practical people, try Hoover? Do not the past four years show us that if there is a man in the world who can reduce the cost of living that man is Hoover? And is not the chance of saving a few billions each year worth taking instead of continuing to put our trust in oratory?"

"BUT HE'S NOT A POLITICIAN" "But they tell us Hoover is not a politician. I am not so sure that that is an objection of the first magnitude. We have had no dearth of politicians in office, but the public service of many of them can be measured by the amount of salary they have drawn from the public treasury, and by an eloquence made up of dry husks and never illuminated by an idea that has been of use to the millions of their countrymen. This will never be made a prosperous and contented country and a happy world by blather and faction. The people need a change of diet. They have been fed on political chestnuts long enough. Hoover's discussions have shown a mastery of political and economic questions and of world problems such as has been surpassed by no other man. The people of America have an opportunity to do a simple thing worthy of their greatness. We shall still not lack for politicians. But let us leave the mass by a man who has genius, who is fitted to deal with the problems of the hour and who seems predestined for service in this crisis."

Books And Other Things

By ROBERT C. BENCHLEY

(New York World)

In "The Book of the Damned," issued some time ago by Boni & Liveright, Charles Fort went to great pains to collect all the data available in the world about odd things which had dropped from the skies at one time or another. Thousands and thousands of cases were cited in detail, describing chunks of meteors and barrels of red rain which had landed on the earth from some mysterious source. It was a prodigious piece of compilation and incontrovertibly proved some point which Mr. Fort was making—I forget now just what it was.

An equal amount of work has been put by Dr. Courtenay Dunn into a book called "The Natural History of the Child" (John Lane). Dr. Dunn has brought together everything that ever was recorded or said about children, beginning with Cain and Abel, and with genial side comments of his own has made it into a book of Fascinating Facts for Father. He gets so interested in dispensing odds and ends of information that at times he forgets all about the children and confides in the reader to the extent of telling him that in Edward III's reign herrings cost nearly a penny apiece, during Lent, or that a strong link in the chain of one universal religion is found in India, where the incarnate deity, Krishna in the arms of Devaki, is black with woolly hair.

Some idea of the scope of Dr. Dunn's work may be had by noting that on one page alone of "The Natural History of the Child" one can glean the following information:

The first modern kilt and plaid in the British Army is said to have been manufactured by Gen. Wolfe's regimental tailors. They were possibly copied from those of Thomas Rawlinson, who, it is affirmed, introduced the short kilt into Scotland in 1728.

In Wesley's time all the male population over three years of age wore cocked hats. Wesley said, "I don't like my preachers to wear round hats; they look too buckish."

Until Elizabeth's reign school-boys wore neither caps nor hats. Hats were abolished at the Bluecoat School about 1865.

In early times perforated teeth and bones probably took the place of the button of today.

You can see what you might get out of a thorough reading of "The Natural History of the Child." The title is the only thing that is not accounted for in its pages.

There is, however, a great deal of useful data concerning children scattered throughout the general information. For instance, on page 50 it says that in Greece, China and Japan a tray containing an egg, money, pen, tools, &c., is placed before the infant and whichever he first touches is an indication of his future career. This seemed a plausible theory, so it was tried out at my home only this morning. (An old blue poker chip had, unfortunately, to be substituted for the piece of money). The candidate on whom the trick was being tried has just seen his eighth calendar month and is beginning to show his age. No sooner were the specified articles placed on the tray of his high chair than he swept them all to the floor at once with a single impartial movement of the arm, thereby proving either nothing at all or that he is going to take a shot at every line of work which comes his way, just like his dear father.

It says in the book that it is bad luck if the baby touches an egg, although "several opinions have been expressed at one time or another of the custom of presenting or offering a baby an egg—probably it is to wish the child a long life." There would seem to be only one opinion possible about offering a child an egg.

There is no good reason to suppose that an egg would not go the same way that the celluloid ring, the imitation ivory glove-stretcher and the rubber Holstein go every eight seconds—over the side of the tray. At any rate, one wouldn't have constantly to keep picking up the egg.

Interesting statistics are given about the early age at which some children have attained greatness. Did you know, for instance, that

Pope Leo X. Giovanni di

Medici, received his hat when only twelve years of age?

Ferdinand of Austria, son of Philip III. of Spain, was only ten at the time of his promotion: Alexander Peretti, nephew of Sixtus V., was fourteen years old, and Maurice of Savoy (Paul V.) the same age, when they became Cardinals.

The never-to-be forgotten Judge Jeffreys was only fifteen years of age in 1663 when he entered the Middle Temple?

I myself was only thirteen years old when I was elected (by a unanimous vote in which I participated) Sergeant at Arms of the South End Debating Club of Worcester, Mass., in which capacity I was empowered to eject unruly members from the club-room, provided that they were younger and smaller than I was.

My oldest son, now but four years old (well, he won't be five until next November; that's practically four years old now) said only this morning—but there, I mustn't run on so.

Cat's Whiskers Aid Its Eyes

Why does a cat have whiskers? asks the Popular Science Monthly. This question comes under the larger one—what is the function of eye appendages? Mr. P. F. Swindle has investigated this subject very thoroughly, and he has formed some startling conclusions, which he reports in the American Journal of Psychology. Your First Reader told you, in simple words and large type, that pussy's whiskers, wide as his body, were there to warn him of the sized hole he could crawl through, but that reason alone did not suit psychologists, and they have recently proved that whiskers aid the cat's eye. Most animals have eye appendages that seem to obstruct their vision. And many of those that haven't any use substitutes—the snake, for instance, continually thrusts out its tongue. But, according to Mr. Swindle's investigations, those obstructing appendages really aid the eye. When an animal watches its prey, or stares at a branch that it intends to land on it wiggles its whiskers constantly and thereby rests its eyes. Thus, instead of becoming blurred in time, the object it watches is always sharply defined.

Mr. Swindle experimented with a tomcat, watching him first with his whiskers on, and then watching him after the whiskers had been shaved off. Tommy soon changed from a fat, well fed cat to a thin, hungry one.

Jewellers' Floors Yield Much Gold

The time honored gold miner's term for gold ore, or auriferous gravel in placer diggings, is "pay dirt." This desirable material is found not only in the Golden West, but knowing jewelry manufacturers "strike it rich" right here in Manhattan. Maiden Lane district gold mining prospects are in jewelry factory floors, which yield platinum, gold and silver.

These metals are also extracted from dentists' refuse and from the sweepings of gold beaters, bookbinders, pottery decorators, picture frame and mirror manufacturers.

Few manufacturing firms melt their own sweeps. In the '70's none of the manufacturers thought of covering their shop floors with either tar felt or linoleum, and the floors were of pine wood, with open cracks between the boards. When a manufacturer moved he requisitioned a refiner to superintend the ripping up of the floors, and these sometimes yielded many thousands of dollars.

Julius Wodiska, the jewel expert, relates an experience of his own. From 1879 to 1885 he had a factory at No. 64 Fulton Street, over the store of an exterminator of rats and other vermin, who owned the building. In the summer of 1884 a shrewd gold refiner, who knew the large amount of precious metals handled in Mr. Wodiska's place, told the landlord that any time the jeweller moved, he, the refiner, would pay the refiner the privilege of taking up and relaying the floor of the jewelry factory. The landlord notified Wodiska that on the 1st of the coming May his rent would be

Goslington's Philosophy

This morning I met walking along the street a man who was laughing; not at something he saw, but just laughing to himself at something he had in his mind at a happy thought. His face was inclined downward a little and he had slowed down a little in his gait, as he had become absorbed in what he was thinking about; but now, as he passed the peak of this enjoyment, he lifted his head again to its usual level and strode on again at his usual gait; his face, however, still smiling.

Fortunate is the man that has in his heart a spring that bubbles happy thoughts. Every time I give the brush boy in my barber shop a nickel I feel ashamed, for myself and for him. For him, because he does his work in a careless, inefficient manner; for myself, because I continue to pay for such service. And he's a nice boy at that; cheerful, well meaning, polite, but he simply doesn't know that he isn't living up to his privileges, that he isn't doing the best he could.

I don't know what I can do about it—nothing, I suppose. Having started giving, I must keep on. I would like to tell him that the one and only way for anybody, man or boy, to get on in the world is to do his work, whatever it may be, to the very best of his ability; but this is something that I can't pluck up the courage to do.

Liquor Too Much For Belgian 'Drys'

So They Have Asked The Knights Of Columbus How We Manage It In America

(New York World)

The Society for Sobriety—one of the many Prohibition committees in Belgium—has been considering how to enforce the "dry" law in that country. It seems that despite the fact that public houses are not allowed to sell intoxicating drinks, Demon Rum is still running amuck.

"Why not ask the Knights of Columbus to tell us how they do it in America?" It was suggested to the "Sobrietas." Whereupon the "dry" ones called for their Chief Secretary, who drew up the following questionnaire for the K. of C. to answer:

"What drinks are now sold in your public houses, restaurants, road-houses, etc., to replace alcoholic beverages, such as beer, whiskey and wines?"

"What kind of drinks are sold or served at entertainments, official receptions and marriages?"

"What did you do with the labor problem brought about through Prohibition, and just what is the result of the law in America?"

"What recipes can you give us for non-alcoholic beverages?"

"What drinks (non-alcoholic) can be made at home?"

"What drinks are manufactured by industrial concerns? How popular are they? Why are they popular? Please give us complete information."

"Where can we buy some of the machinery making them? Can it be sent to Belgium, and how much will we have to pay?"

"We suppose you already know," wrote the committee, "that August 1919, a law was voted by the Belgian Parliament which forbids the sale of intoxicating drinks in public houses, but, on the other hand, alcohol may be sold in shops in quantities of at least two litres which is for home consumption. The result of this measure is that more alcohol and liquors are taken home, for we must admit that the Belgian people are addicted to drink, and the law is not supported by them. Besides, the law is imperfect, and to well known customers alcohol is still supplied in public houses."

President M. Oerden signs the appeal, which the Knights of Columbus have passed on to the Federal Excise Commissioner's office.
